

Michael & Sarah

Dear Birth Parents,

As we begin our journey of adoption, we want you to know that we have already prayed for the baby you carry. We began our journey to start our family in 2007, however, we suffered two miscarriages. Due to complications from our miscarriages, we have struggled with fertility issues. We believe that life is a miracle and that God has a plan for each of our lives. Through a miraculous series of events, we were able to conceive our daughter, Morgan. Since Morgan's birth, our desire to grow our family has continued, but due to infertility, this has not been possible.

Adoption has already blessed our lives in multiple ways. Michael has two sisters that are adopted, and Sarah has a nephew that is adopted. We both have siblings and desire for Morgan to experience that same blessing. Our families are very important to us and are involved in our lives. Sarah is a triplet and has a very close relationship with her sisters. Michael is the oldest in his family and enjoys being the "big brother". We have so much love to give and we can't wait to shower this love on our future child.

Although we cannot pretend to understand how you are feeling at this time, we want you to know that we are praying for you and we understand what loss feels like. Difficult circumstances in life often cause us to make life-changing decisions. The decision you are making is one that we admire and respect. We will always make sure your child knows how much you love them and how much you sacrificed for them. You will always hold a special place in our family and in our hearts. We do not believe that anything happens by accident, and God has placed you in our lives for such a time as this. Through your love and sacrifice, we would be honored to be your child's adoptive parents.

Love Always,
Michael, Sarah, and Morgan

Fun Family Facts

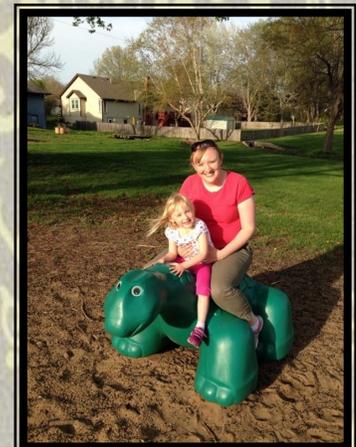

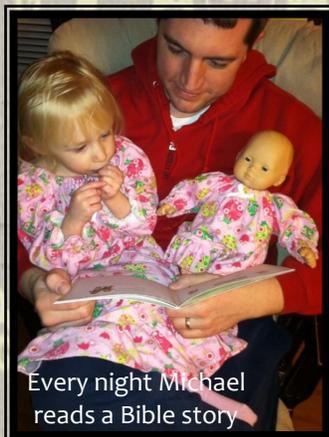

Views on Adoption

Michael grew up with two adopted sisters, three adopted cousins, and now shares an adopted nephew with Sarah. Adoption has always held a special place in our lives. Since we are unable to have more children of our own and believe our family is not yet complete, we are ready to grow our family through adoption.

Child Care Plans

Morgan goes to a Christian pre-school. The school has an excellent daycare program for infants, as well as a private elementary school. We want Morgan and our new baby to be in the same location, so we plan to send them both to this school. They will be right across the hall from each other. Morgan is excited to take our new baby to school and show her friends her new family member.

Views on Parenting, Education & Discipline

Our role as parents is to love, provide for, and teach our children. It is our responsibility to be consistent in how we model healthy relationships and guide our children to make Godly choices through discipline in love and grace. It is important to provide a well-rounded education for our children so they can become independent, positive members of society.

Hobbies/Interests

Michael: coin collecting, model trains, playing the violin

Sarah: scrapbooking, board games, reading

Morgan: princesses, dress up, drawing

Sarah has taught pre-K, kindergarten, and currently teaches English as a Second Language.

Michael's family

Family Life

Our family takes a top priority in our lives. We make an extra effort to keep our evenings free for family time. We eat dinner together every night and enjoy going on walks, playing board games, and going to the park together. Our extended family is also very important to us and we travel to visit them several times each year; especially on the holidays.

Sarah's parents

Religious Life

We are members of our local church, attend services every Sunday morning, evening, and Wednesday nights. We teach a pre-K Sunday school class, Michael plays drums on the worship team, and we attend bi-weekly Bible studies with a small group of young, married couples. At home, we read the Bible and pray together as a family every night.

Openness

Willing to send letters and pictures, and discuss meetings with birthparents.

Morgan and her friend Cadence

Our Home

Three bedroom, two bath, ranch-style home in a new, family-friendly neighborhood

Morgan likes to go into the baby's room and practice reading for when she's a big sister